I will continue my efforts to secure research funds through proposal collaborations and communications with surrounding industry. I am in close contact with NIST from which I have funding for MS and PhD students and ARDC which is funding 4 undergraduate researchers. I am also continuing my research collaboration with one professor at CU Boulder, one professor at Northern Illinois University, one professor at McMaster University, and one professor at KAUST.

In late 2014 I started an electromagnetic group in the state of Colorado (Co-EM). The group consists of professors from Colorado Universities and electromagnetics and antenna specialists from Colorado companies and government institutions. The first meeting of the group took place at Colorado school of Mines, the following meetings took place at Colorado State University in Fort Collins, University of Colorado in Boulder, NIST, University of Colorado in Denver, and University of Colorado in Colorado Springs. I am leading this effort to bring recognition to Mines and to the efforts and research productivity of the antennas and wireless communication group (AWC) that I have established at Mines EE department. Among the participants of this CO-EM group, aside from university professors, are experts and professionals from Lockheed Martins, NIST, Frist RF, LGS, Ball Aerospace, Keysight, and Altair.
